Rome (NEV), December 21, 2018 – The results of the VII report on the presence of the religious confessions on television and the VIII report on their presence in the News pro offer a “discouraging” panorama. This is what Enzo Marzo, director of the magazine 'Cr Liberale', expressed in the press conference held on December 18, in Rome in the press the Chamber of Deputies, to present the two researches dedicated the 98.93% of its religious information to the Catholic Church. "It is a fact repeated also the previous year: all confessions apart the Catholic one reached 1%; not to mention information about Muslims, which is often to be found only in the crime news", Marzo said.

The press conference was also an opportunity to announce the establishment of a parliamentary Intergroup on laity, presented by MP Luca Pastorino and by the lawyer Andrea Maestri.

"The research data offer much food for thought about the lack of pluralism in the Italian television information", said lawyer Ilaria Valenzi, legal adviser of the Evangelical Church Commission for the Relations with the State (CCERS), speaking at the press conference. "Certainly – continued Valenzi – the establishment of a parliamentary intergroup on laity is an important initiative. We should, however, question ourselves to redefine the concept of secularism in the light of a plural and multi-faith society, as Italy is today".
